Hold companies operating in the EU legally accountable for any harm they cause to people and the environment around the world.

They must disclose accurate information about their activities.

Victims should face no barriers in accessing justice in the EU.